

Senator Tester defends federal Clean Water Rule!

Senator Jon Tester voted against an attempt in the U.S. Senate to override President Obama's veto of a senate resolution this week that would have repealed important safeguards of the federal Clean Water Act. Montana TU applauds Senator Tester's actions to maintain protection of our nation's streams and wetlands by standing up for the Clean Water Rule.

The Clean Water Rule protects many of Montana's headwater tributaries. They provide critical seasonal spawning and rearing habitat for trout, as well as important cold, clean flows for cities and agriculture. By once again voting to support the Clean Water Rule, Senator Tester continues to help ensure that healthy fisheries – and the nearly one billion dollars angling annually generates for our economy – will continue to thrive in Montana.

Please take a moment to thank Sen. Tester for standing up for the Clean Water Rule. You can send him an email through Senator Tester's Webpage, or leave a message on his Facebook page @Senator Jon Tester.
